12031 (e) states that peace officers may examine firearms carried in public, but only to determine if they are loaded. No further search of any kind is authorized, without a warrant, or legal probable cause. Legally carrying a firearm is not grounds for probable cause. Furthermore, other than showing ID, citizens are not required to answer any police questions, for any reason, under any circumstances.

"Police, at all times, should maintain a relationship with the public that gives reality to the historic tradition that the police are the public and the public are the police; the police being only members of the public who are paid to give full-time attention to duties which are incumbent upon every citizen." - Sir Robert Peel
