Why Open Carry in California?

- For those choosing to carry a firearm for self-defense, who live in counties with no-issue CCW policies, Open Carry is the only legal means available.
- As a form of legal civil protest of unconstitutional CCW issuance policies.
- To dispel the myth that only cops and criminals carry guns, and to help reintroduce the general public and the law enforcement community to the reality that ordinary peaceful law-abiding citizens possess, use, and carry firearms.
- To exercise one's right.
- As a visible deterrent to crime.
- OC is often more comfortable than CC, and offers more ready access.

Why Open Carry in California?

- For those choosing to carry a firearm for self-defense, who live in counties with no-issue CCW policies, Open Carry is the only legal means available.
- As a form of legal civil protest of unconstitutional CCW issuance policies.
- To dispel the myth that only cops and criminals carry guns, and to help reintroduce the general public and the law enforcement community to the reality that ordinary peaceful law-abiding citizens possess, use, and carry firearms.
- To exercise one's right.
- As a visible deterrent to crime.
- OC is often more comfortable than CC, and offers more ready access.

Why Open Carry in California?

- For those choosing to carry a firearm for self-defense, who live in counties with no-issue CCW policies, Open Carry is the only legal means available.
- As a form of legal civil protest of unconstitutional CCW issuance policies.
- To dispel the myth that only cops and criminals carry guns, and to help reintroduce the general public and the law enforcement community to the reality that ordinary peaceful law-abiding citizens possess, use, and carry firearms.
- To exercise one's right.
- As a visible deterrent to crime.
- OC is often more comfortable than CC, and offers more ready access.

Why Open Carry in California?

- For those choosing to carry a firearm for self-defense, who live in counties with no-issue CCW policies, Open Carry is the only legal means available.
- As a form of legal civil protest of unconstitutional CCW issuance policies.
- To dispel the myth that only cops and criminals carry guns, and to help reintroduce the general public and the law enforcement community to the reality that ordinary peaceful law-abiding citizens possess, use, and carry firearms.
- To exercise one's right.
- As a visible deterrent to crime.
- OC is often more comfortable than CC, and offers more ready access.

Why Open Carry in California?

- For those choosing to carry a firearm for self-defense, who live in counties with no-issue CCW policies, Open Carry is the only legal means available.
- As a form of legal civil protest of unconstitutional CCW issuance policies.
- To dispel the myth that only cops and criminals carry guns, and to help reintroduce the general public and the law enforcement community to the reality that ordinary peaceful law-abiding citizens possess, use, and carry firearms.
- To exercise one's right.
- As a visible deterrent to crime.
- OC is often more comfortable than CC, and offers more ready access.

Why Open Carry in California?

- For those choosing to carry a firearm for self-defense, who live in counties with no-issue CCW policies, Open Carry is the only legal means available.
- As a form of legal civil protest of unconstitutional CCW issuance policies.
- To dispel the myth that only cops and criminals carry guns, and to help reintroduce the general public and the law enforcement community to the reality that ordinary peaceful law-abiding citizens possess, use, and carry firearms.
- To exercise one's right.
- As a visible deterrent to crime.
- OC is often more comfortable than CC, and offers more ready access.

Why Open Carry in California?

- For those choosing to carry a firearm for self-defense, who live in counties with no-issue CCW policies, Open Carry is the only legal means available.
- As a form of legal civil protest of unconstitutional CCW issuance policies.
- To dispel the myth that only cops and criminals carry guns, and to help reintroduce the general public and the law enforcement community to the reality that ordinary peaceful law-abiding citizens possess, use, and carry firearms.
- To exercise one's right.
- As a visible deterrent to crime.
- OC is often more comfortable than CC, and offers more ready access.

Why Open Carry in California?

- For those choosing to carry a firearm for self-defense, who live in counties with no-issue CCW policies, Open Carry is the only legal means available.
- As a form of legal civil protest of unconstitutional CCW issuance policies.
- To dispel the myth that only cops and criminals carry guns, and to help reintroduce the general public and the law enforcement community to the reality that ordinary peaceful law-abiding citizens possess, use, and carry firearms.
- To exercise one's right.
- As a visible deterrent to crime.
- OC is often more comfortable than CC, and offers more ready access.

Why Open Carry in California?

- For those choosing to carry a firearm for self-defense, who live in counties with no-issue CCW policies, Open Carry is the only legal means available.
- As a form of legal civil protest of unconstitutional CCW issuance policies.
- To dispel the myth that only cops and criminals carry guns, and to help reintroduce the general public and the law enforcement community to the reality that ordinary peaceful law-abiding citizens possess, use, and carry firearms.
- To exercise one's right.
- As a visible deterrent to crime.
- OC is often more comfortable than CC, and offers more ready access.